

"Dr. Kleinpeter has produced a dictionary, but not one in the traditional sense. Dr. Kleinpeter's dictionary is full of definitions and meanings, perhaps, uncomfortably accurate. These are not just definitions, but the bases of rethinking our world views."

*---Alastair Robb PhD
The University of Queensland, Australia*

Dr. Kleinpeter's provocative Taboo Dictionary holds up a magnifying glass to the contentious issues of the day and challenges the reader to explore them from a unique perspective informed by sociological, cultural and metaphysical thought.

---Robert Branciforte, MLIS, Florida State University

A social science dictionary of 1,303 entries that questions established beliefs cloaked in forms of institutionalized life - the linked functions of family, religion, economy, and state. The spirit of the provocateur is felt throughout an analysis that is a mix of observations, interpreted by the social sciences, religious and philosophical views to give meaning to paradoxes and dysfunctions created by their own devices forming barriers to the realization of policies improving the human condition. Yet the lust of power, the vice of disingenuous ambitions and motives of personages, and institutional actors, they remain the sources of failed governance - its latest form, a corporatist state that functions on engineered problems designer to feed the prison, military, and surveillance industrial complexes.

Dr. Hubert Kleinpeter is an international educator, author, and researcher of the social sciences; a graduate of Florida State University; he holds degrees in government, the social sciences, and education. He served as senior researcher and liaison for the University of Miami School of Medicine; taught sociology at Florida A & M University, and the social sciences of education at Florida State University; and authored the first dissertation on street and working children. He is proficient in English, Spanish, and Mandarin Chinese. He resides in Asia where he is a recognized expert adviser and educator. He founded the Mantis Institute and advisory society advancing education as an agency of peaceful human development.
